San Francisco and Santa Clara, CA (April 12, 2010) – Peter Copriviza has joined Skyline Construction, the Bay Area based general contractor selected by The Wall Street Journal and Winning Workplaces as one of the 15 Top Small Workplaces in America.

As director of operations, Copriviza will assume responsibility for project planning and logistics, as well as the firm's overall construction process—ranging from estimating to document control to personnel training. He will also assist the business development and marketing department with job selection, client presentations and client satisfaction.

Prior to joining Skyline Construction, Copriviza was an account representative and project executive with Devcon Construction, where he managed key projects in retail, housing, hospitality, manufacturing, office, sports facilities, childcare, data centers, cafeterias, conference centers and engineering labs. With over twenty one years of construction management experience, Copriviza has proven his ability to handle multiple tasks and communicate professionally and effectively with all parties throughout the entire construction process.

“Peter is a seasoned team leader with a strong technical background and excellent communication skills,” commented Skyline Construction President and CEO David Hayes. “He is an asset to the firm and will ensure the continuation of Skyline Construction’s growth and success.”
