Skyline Construction snags Novo principal

Novo Construction principal Arne Ericson has jumped ship to join competitor Skyline Construction.

Ericson will be a president at Skyline and will assist company CEO David Hayes with "overall company issues and focus on growing our Santa Clara office, our critical infrastructure group and improve the depth in our San Francisco office." Hayes said. Skyline has been on a roll of late, snagging big tenant improvement deals for Google and Clarium Capital Partners, and has seen revenue jump from $36 million in 2004 to $76 million last year.
